Lesson Title: Five Line Poem

Grade Level: Elementary School

Project and Purpose

Students write a five line poem on a designated theme or topic.

Essential Question

How do we express ideas in a five line poem?

Materials

- Paper and writing tools or computer writing program
- “Fast and Fun” poem example

Introduction

1. Read a sample five-line poem aloud (an example is provided for you). Encourage students to listen for patterns or repetition and then discuss what they hear.
2. Discuss the words stanza and line and how each is used in a poem. (A stanza is a fixed number of lines in a poem, somewhat like a verse of a song. A line is a single geometric line of words in a poem. Lines make up stanzas.)
3. Talk about how, in the poem provided, each stanza starts with “I am fast and fun,” and each line starts with “I.”

Direct Instruction (I do)

1. Explain that students will write their own five-line stanza of a poem about the chosen topic.
2. Demonstrate how you might select a topic/theme and create a five line poem that uses the same introductory word or words for the five lines.

Note: for younger students, having a template for the poem that provides the opening words for each line is often quite helpful.

Guided Exploration (We do)

As a group, write a stanza on the topic using the set of words you have selected for each line.

Independent Practice (You do)

1. Give students time to write their own five line stanzas using the set words you have selected for each line.
2. Ask students to share their poems with a partner.

Conclusion

Encourage students to read their poems aloud to the class.

Consider collecting all of the five line poems and combining them together to create the stanzas of a larger class poem.

Sample Five Line Poem

Fast and Fun

I am fast and fun.
I can dream, dreams that nobody has dreamt before.
I would go on adventures all over the world.
I want to write out my imagination.
I enjoy seeing peace.

I am fast and fun.
I want to fly and taste the air.
I am not afraid to say what I want.
I feel such smooth things that touch my fingers.
I find such pretty things in nature.

I am fast and fun.
I want to be a soccer star.
I think hard about things.
I wonder where we go when we fade.
I feel so great when I help someone.
